1. WORKSHOP

14:00 – 15:00

Emergencies in PAG – Ultrasound diagnosis

Presenting Authors: Zoran Stankovic (Serbia): Department of Pediatric and Adolescent Gynecologic Surgery in Belgrade. President of EURAPAG and Serbian PAG society. Head of FIGIJ PAG training center Belgrade.

Gabriele Tridenti (Italy): Azienda Ospedaliera Santa Maria Nuova di Reggio Emilia. President of EURAPAG Academy

Moderator: MUDr. Dagmar Smetanová (Chief doctor Gennet center, Prague, CZ)

Co-moderator: MUDr. Liam McCoulogh (University Hospital, Bratislava, SK)

Language: English

Ultrasound plays a crucial role in the rapid diagnosis of sudden conditions in paediatric gynaecology (ovarian torsion, ruptured ovarian cysts, ectopic pregnancy, PID, genital trauma...). It helps to assess the size of the ovaries, free fluid in the pelvis and structural abnormalities, also impaired blood circulation. Early detection and accurate ultrasound diagnosis allows early intervention, reduction of complications and preservation of reproductive function in young patients.

The workshop will introduce you to urgent PAG cases through an instructional presentation and gives you an opportunity for „hands on“ training and to discuss important points.

10 minutes break

2. WORKSHOP

15:10 – 16:10

Vaginoscopy

Presenting author: Dvora Bauman (Israel). Head of PAG services and director of Bat-Ami center for sexually abused victims, Hadassah University Med Center, Jerusalem. EURAPAG Secretary General

Moderator: MUDr. Peter Feldmár, PhD. (HIPOKRATES DS, s. r. o., SK)

Co-moderator: MUDr., PhD. Mária Vargová, PhD. (University Hospital, Bratislava, SK)

Language: English

Vaginoscopy is a non-invasive diagnostic procedure used to visualize the vaginal canal and cervix, which is used in children, adolescents and women in whom the use of gynecological mirrors is not appropriate. It allows assessment of the presence of pathological changes such as infections, bleeding of unknown origin, foreign bodies or congenital anomalies. The advantage of vaginoscopy is its gentleness, the absence of mechanical dilatation and the possibility of performing it without anaesthesia.

You will be introduced to the subject by a presentation, then have the opportunity for practical „hands on“ training and discuss important tips and tricks

10 minutes break

3. WORKSHOP

16:20 – 17:20

Operations in PAG

Presenting Author: Aruna Kumari (UK): Consultant Gynaecologist, Lead for Paediatric and Adolescent Gynaecology and Termination of Pregnancy Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital NHS Trust

Moderator: MUDr. Tereza Valentová (CZ)

Co-moderator: MUDr. Karolína Miková (CZ)

Language: English

Surgical procedures in pediatric and adolescent gynecology are performed to address congenital anomalies, trauma, tumors, emergency situations and other gynecological conditions affecting young patients. Minimally invasive techniques, such as laparoscopy and hysteroscopy, are preferred to reduce postoperative pain and recovery time. In some procedures it is necessary to keep the classical approach.

A presentation with pictures and videos will lead you to take a problem solving approach and you will have an opportunity to discuss important points and some practical training after.

10 minutes break

4. WORKSHOP

17:30 – 18:30

Menstrual disorders and dysmenorrhea in adolescents – how can physiotherapist help

Presenting author: Beata Soltesova, Physiotherapist of the Slovak national swimming team (SK)

Moderator: doc. MUDr. Rastislav Sysák, PhD. (University Hospital, Bratislava, SK)

Co-moderator: MUDr. Miroslava Dubčáková (Poliklinika Mýtna, Bratislava, SK)

Language: Slovak

The occurrence of a functional disorder of the musculoskeletal system affects the overall condition of the human body and gives rise to internal organ disorders. These can manifest themselves in painful conditions as well as the emergence of dysfunction. If certain muscle groups are inappropriately used, they cause disharmony and consequent pain and disorders in the pelvic region. It is ideal to look for a solution in the causes of its occurrence and not only in the possibilities of its suppression. Physiotherapy can address chronic lower abdominal pain, menstrual pain as well as positively affect the menstrual cycle.

The author will guide you through the issues in an introductory presentation. This will be followed by practical demonstrations of rehabilitation techniques, Kinesio Taping, breathing exercises, and practice of correct posture. You can also practically learn exercises targeting the small pelvis area.
